

CLEARING HOUSE

Seats For Tickets
Frequent complaints poured into the office yesterday concerning the lack of space for students at the Saturday game. John Ed Pearce expresses the sentiments of most students. We believe, in his column today. Certainly, students with tickets should be allowed seats in the grandstand to their own games.

Music Throughout
"Dear Editor: Why not have the band's music 'pumped' throughout the Union building during dances?"
—G. L.
Seems like a good idea to us.

Why Not Before
Michigan State College is now giving degrees for police work. The new title, B. S. P. S. (bachelor of science in police administration), was awarded recently to two of its men.

That this calling has been neglected so long is a rather sad commentary on our civilization. It appears that these protectors of the public safety should be the first to be considered for adequate training.

Politics
"Dear Editor: The article by Eckdahl in last Friday's Kernel regarding the new Independent Party on the campus was very encouraging. The 'Voiceless Majority' should have a representation. I see that your paper is doing its share in helping this organization develop. I noticed that Mr. Eckdahl failed to mention that the majority is at least three independent to one Greek letter student on the campus. More power to your paper."—J. H. W.

We do believe that everyone should be represented, and George Lamason will write for the other political organizations.

Lesson In English
"Dear Sir: Would presume to suggest that someone at the announcements at football games that penalize should be pronounced with the 'e' long. It pains our aesthetic (or grammatical) soul to hear it uttered with an 'e' like the one in pig pen."—K. W.

No Time For This
Two letters, both regarding personal matters, were received for this issue. One was a dissertation on falling hair and the other a poem entitled "Learned By Experience." Although these listed under "Literature" is interesting to read, it is not suitable to this type of column.

Correction
Wynne McKinney asks that a correction be made regarding Eckdahl's column in which Wynne was among those listed under Accommodations Department. Says McKinney, "I didn't really mean it when I asked him. I was only fooling."

Give Them A Hand
Comes a notice from the Union building that is about as crushing as the frequent admonitions and numerous ash trays. On the whole, so far this year the student body has cooperated with the Union committees. Let's don't spoil the record now.

Back Again
That old bogey, lack of space, is back again in this issue. We hate it as much as anyone because stories have to be cut out and some even left out. Society items usually suffer most because page three is always crammed with ads. But it is necessary since the paper has to pay for itself.

On Page Two
The editorial on page two regarding jitterbugs is the result of frequent complaints in the past two weeks. Let us know what you think of this new school spirit and the best way to encourage it. Bob Hess is guest columnist today on the scandal and John Ed Pearce goes wild over the Student Council—without knowing much about it... and so to press at 9:30 o'clock.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question:
Do you believe in college romances?

The Answer:
Theresa McKenney, Arts and Science: "This seems like an odd question to me; most people do want a little romance, and if your affections aren't somewhere else, I suppose college is as good a place as any to get one's share. I've never given it much consideration, so I'm afraid this is a rather lame opinion."

Freelond Hunter, Commerce:
"Yes, if they are not based entirely on the idea of ending in marriage. We devote vast amounts of time, energy, and money toward fitting ourselves for a vocation so why shouldn't we do the same to increase our knowledge of women as a foundation and preparation for marriage? I believe there aren't enough college romances!"

Era Clay, Education: "Yes, I think most college romances end in marriages, and this is as it should be because in college, girls and boys meet more people than at any other time and if they don't meet someone then their chances of meeting someone after college is certainly less. It seems to me that young people from the ages of 18-22 are certainly old enough to have romances even if they don't end at the altar."

Pete Vires, Arts and Science: "Yes, I do. In some cases it helps both the girl and boy to settle down and go to work, whereas the rounders who date scores are always in an up-or-ear."

SEX PROBLEMS TO BE SUBJECT OF CONVO TALK

Dr. Roy A. Burkhardt, Writer, Will Address Students Today At 10 A. M.

SPECIAL INTERVIEWS FOR 'STEADY DATERS'
Speaker Offers To Conduct Personal Conferences In Union Building

Dr. Roy A. Burkhardt, pastor, writer, and authority on sex hygiene will speak on the subject of "Sex Problems of Youth" at a general convocation to be held at 10 a. m. today in Memorial hall.

Sponsored by the YMCA and YWCA, this convocation will be the third of a three-day series of talks. Yesterday morning he spoke before the Arts and Sciences freshmen matriculation lecture group.

Dr. Burkhardt addressed men students at 7 o'clock last night at the men's dormitory and women students at 8 o'clock last night in Boyd hall.

Students may have personal interviews with Dr. Burkhardt from 11 a. m. to 12 noon and from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m. today in room 205 of the Union building. Those interested should sign up for interviews at the YMCA-YWCA office in the Union.

Members of the American Association of University Women will hear Dr. Burkhardt at 3:30 p. m. today in the Music room of the Union.

A special group interview with Dr. Burkhardt is to be held at 4:45 p. m. today in room 204 of the Union for "steady daters."

More personal interviews with students will be held between 11 a. m. and 12 noon and between 2 p. m. and 3 p. m. tomorrow with a group interview on "Problems of Dating" at 3:30 p. m. in room 204 Union building.

Tomorrow at 4:30 p. m., Dr. Burkhardt will address an All-Student forum in Memorial hall.

Dr. Burkhardt is pastor of the First Community church, Columbus, Ohio.

Thousand Delegates Expected To Attend Rural Forum Here

More than 1,000 delegates from various states and from foreign countries are expected to attend the annual convention of the National Rural Forum under the auspices of the American country life association November 1-4 at the University.

Held in conjunction with the convention will be the fourth national conference on the rural home and conference of rural youth and of the National Home Demonstration Council. Each group will bring leaders in its respective fields.

Dr. Thomas P. Cooper, dean of the College of Agriculture and Dean of the National Home Demonstration Council, will be the keynote speaker. President of the organization is Dr. Dwight Sanderson, of Cornell University.

The convention will have as speakers many noted educators, economists and sociologists representing leading universities and colleges, and from the United States Department of Agriculture, according to a preliminary program, issued for the New York headquarters of the association.

The American Country Life Association is a voluntary association of persons and organizations who are working for a worthy life in America. It was organized in 1919, and has held annual national conferences on various topics related to the building of a fine rural civilization in the United States. It is non-partisan and its annual meetings provide a forum of discussion of problems, goals and methods for those working for rural improvement.

McVey And Wilson Speak To Officers

President Frank L. McVey and Mayor E. Reed Wilson were guests at the annual convocation for the installation of class and club officers of the University high school held at 11 a. m. Monday in the high school auditorium.

Presented by Dean W. S. Taylor of the Education college, Dr. McVey spoke on "The Age of Paper."

Mayor Wilson's subject was "The Civic Responsibility of Student Officers." He was introduced by Prof. J. D. Williams, principal of the high school.

Lawrence To Talk Before Educators
A. J. Lawrence, head of the department of business education, will speak at the fall meeting of the Kentucky Business Education Association at 10 a. m. Saturday at Morehead State Teachers' College.

He will speak on "A Proposed Curriculum Study of Business in Kentucky High Schools." Mr. Lawrence was president of this association last year.

MRS. HOLMES SLATED TO TALK
Mrs. Sarah B. Holmes, assistant dean of women, will speak before the Anderson County Homemakers club on Friday at Lawrenceburg.

BACTERIOLOGISTS HEAR SCHERAGO

Authority Says Bacteriology And Allied Sciences Are Open Fields

Dr. Morris Scherago, head of the bacteriology department, addressed the first meeting of the University bacteriological society held Monday night, October 10, on the purpose of the university training medical technologists.

Dr. Scherago talked of the opportunities for young men and women in bacteriology and medical technology and explained the difference in the two professions. He mentioned the degrees toward which the students are urged to work, depending upon the branch of the science in which they are especially interested. He named a number of research projects in which the graduate students participate and enumerated the various positions open to bacteriologists. He also stated that the department contributes its share to the cultural program of the college of liberal arts and sciences, saying that "as a cultural subject, bacteriology affords the student an opportunity to become familiar with some of the profound mysteries of the microscopic world and to appreciate the tremendous influence that such tiny specks of life as the bacteria exert upon the lives of all of us."

Dr. Scherago concluded his address with a discussion of the careers required for medical technologists and mentioned the present demand for men in this field.

The meeting was attended by about 50 graduates and majors in the department of bacteriology. The president of the society, Sam Salslaw, presided, and refreshments were served.

Opening Of Syphilis Campaign Is Delayed Pending Enlargement Of Testing Facilities

The Wassermann tests originally scheduled to begin today are necessarily postponed because of the limited space in the present dispensary for accommodating the numbers expected to be tested. On the advice of the Louisville hospital where analyses are to be made, and on the suggestion of Dr. J. S. Chambers, director of the dispensary, the tests and proposed campaign will be delayed not more than three weeks.

Within this time, the dispensary will be in new quarters in the old Law building. Here it will be possible to take approximately 100 tests each afternoon.

Today Is Deadline For Degree Applications

Today is the last day for all Seniors who expect to complete their work for graduation in January, June, or August, to make application for degrees. This applies also to Graduate Students who expect to complete their work for graduate degrees. All applications should be filed in Room 9 of the Administration building.

As the commencement lists are made from these cards, it is very important to file an application at this time.

Leo M. Chamberlain, Registrar.

HORSEMEN PLAN ANNUAL DINNER

Union Ballroom To Be Scene Of Seventh Testimonial Banquet

With 500 reservations anticipated, the Thoroughbred Club of America will hold its seventh annual testimonial dinner in the ballroom of the Student Union building Thursday night, with Mrs. Payne Whitney of Lexington and New York as the guest of honor.

Tom R. Underwood, editor of the Lexington Herald, who will act as toastmaster, has announced the following program:

Kentucky's Official Welcome—Governor A. B. Chandler.
Presentation of the scroll and gold pin—Daniel M. Midkiff, president of the Thoroughbred Club of America.
Acceptance—Mrs. Payne Whitney.

Address—John Hay Whitney.
Invitations have been extended to women for the first time as a special courtesy to Mrs. Whitney as she is the first woman to receive the scroll and gold pin.

The University of Kentucky radio orchestra, under the direction of Elmer Sulzer, will furnish music during the dinner.

As a special feature, spirituals will be sung by the choir of the First Baptist Church, colored, of Lexington.

Hammonds To Talk At District Meeting

Dr. Carsie Hammonds, who is in charge of the department of agricultural education, and Robert K. Salyers, state director of NYA, are scheduled to speak at the 43rd annual meeting of the Fourth District Educational Association, to be held Oct. 21 and 22, at Elizabethtown.

Dr. Hammonds' subject is "A Democratic Conception of Teaching." Mr. Salyers will speak on "Facing Needs of Youth."

SAE House Robbed Saturday Morning

Approximately $100 worth of clothing and personal articles were stolen from the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house early Saturday morning between the hours of 3 and 6 o'clock.

Among the articles taken were two suits belonging to Jim Doyle, two suits belonging to George Lamason.

A General European War Has Been Postponed-Not Prevented, Dupre Says

By ALLENBY E. WINER
"A general European war has been only postponed—not prevented."

Dr. T. H. Dupre, associate professor of history, made this declaration yesterday.

Referring to the calm that suddenly has smothered Europe's highly-combustible international scene, Dr. Dupre believes that the structure of peace on the continent, feeble as it was, has been smashed definitely, leaving war-making forces preponderantly in the saddle. Unless something develops to alter the course of events from their present inclination, he said, there will be war.

Reinforcing his statement, Dr. Dupre pointed to Adolf Hitler's aspirations toward the rising sun—southeastern Europe where the Reich Fuhrer looks for a greater outlet for his "Fuehrerprinzip" that would be wholly self-sufficient with the fabulously abundant resources and fertile lands of that area. Grain fields, mines, timber—to the south-

KITTENS AVENGE DEFEAT OF '37

Commodore Frosh Bow 20-0 As Jones And Mullins Star In Game

Scoring three touchdowns in as many periods, the Kentucky Kittens wrecked a freshman Vanderbilt Commodore vessel 20-0 at Nashville Saturday afternoon while their big brothers were attempting to bring Commodore varsity supremacy over Kentucky eleven to an end at the local stadium.

In avenging last year's 14-0 spanking to their predecessors, the Kitties aggregation proved themselves capable of working as a unit, unusual for a squad of all-state men who have been individually outstanding in high school.

Before two minutes had elapsed in the opening stanza, Noah Mullins, Kittens fullback, pounced on Bushmiller's fumble on Vandy's 26, and a series of ground plays culminated by Charles Jones' 17 yard sprint terminated in the first score successfully for the conversion. Again in the third quarter, 175 pound Mullins streaked around the end from his own 15 yard marker, sneaked behind perfect blocking into the clear, reversed his field, and sprinted 85 yards to tally a second touchdown for the Kittens.

Starting from his own forty yard strip, quarterback Charles Jones hit the center of the line, found an opening, and ran sixty yards for the third and finally tally of the afternoon. This remarkable bit of hip-swinging was the most spectacular play of the day.

To Jones' second attempt at dropping kicking for the extra point, the entire Commodore frosh line rose in a body to block the try. A plunge through a hole over guard by Bill Black, former Tighman High back, was good for the third extra point tally.

Vanderbilt's show of offensive power came near the end of the first half when, with the ball in their hands on their own thirty yard marker, they pushed onward sixty yards to Kentucky's 10-yard line where they were halted by the half whistle.

Noah Mullins, former Versailles High School stalwart, and Charles Jones, all-state from Manual High in Louisville, were the stellar performers on the Kittens eleven doing most of the ground gaining through line thrusts and end runs.

Triplet's Condition Remains Serious

Military Science Instructor Is Unlikely To Return This Semester

Officials of the Military Science Department announced Monday that Major Austin Triplet, who is confined in Good Samaritan Hospital as a result of a heart attack suffered recently, may not be able to return to duty for the remainder of the semester.

Major Triplet was stricken Thursday, Oct. 6, while conducting one of his classes. Following the attack, he was removed to his home, and from there he was taken to the hospital, where doctors pronounced his condition serious.

His classes will be continued under the direction of Major I. C. Scudder.

Cooper To Address Ag College Assembly

Dean Thomas Poe Cooper will be the principal speaker at a general assembly of the College of Agriculture to be held at 8 a. m. Thursday, October 13, in Memorial hall.

Dean Cooper urges all Agriculture students to attend the convocation. Group singing will be in charge of a committee from the Freshman class.

Student employment, various courses of study in the college, and other problems of the year will be discussed. The meeting Thursday will be the first assembly of the year.

Two other convocations of the College of Agriculture will be held this semester.

Thursday Is Line For Directory Changes

Thursday, October 13, 5 p. m., is the deadline for changes of address, telephone numbers and other information to be included in the Student Directory. Such information to be included in the directory must be turned into the Alumni Office, Room 124, Student Union Building by that time.

Students who have changed their address since registration or whose address was incomplete at the time of registration are urged to bring in such information before the deadline.

Organizations wishing to be listed in the directory should submit their names and their presidents.

CWENS TO HOLD NATIONAL MEET

Womens Sophomore Honorary Will Meet On Campus October 21-22

Theta chapter of Cwens, honorary society for sophomore women, will hold its ninth biennial convention October 21 and 22, in the Union building, with Mrs. Henry Shelden Vance, alumna of Theta chapter, national president of the organization presiding at the two-day conference.

Speakers for the sessions will include Dean Sarah G. Blanding, who will open the meeting with "Academic Problems of Sophomore Women," and Cora I. Orr, dean of women at Muskingum College, Meadville, Ohio; Dean Sarah B. Holmes, Theta W. Ames, dean of women at the University of Pittsburgh; Helen P. Rush, assistant dean of women at the University of Pittsburgh; Miss Rose Demetichas, national vice-president of Cwens; and Mrs. Betty Miller Groff, national secretary and treasurer of Cwens.

Other activities planned for the conference are a tea at Maxwell Place, a breakfast at the home of Miss Blanding, and a tour of the Bluegrass.

Mary Jane Roby, of Theta chapter, is in charge of arrangements for the convocation.

Faculty Members Are To Participate In Social Caucus

During the Kentucky Conference of Social Work, which will take place in Louisville on October 13, 14, and 15, four members of the University faculty will appear on the program.

At 8 o'clock Thursday, October 13, Dr. J. W. Manning, professor of political science, will preside over a meeting which will be held in the Ballroom of the Kentucky Hotel.

At 9:30 a. m. Friday, Dr. Vivien Palmer, assistant professor in the Department of Social Work, will be speaker at a discussion in the same room. At 8 o'clock Friday, Dr. Harry Best, head of the sociology department, will preside at a meeting in the ballroom.

At 9:30 a. m. Saturday, October 15, Dr. Graham B. Dimmick, associate professor of psychology, will preside over another section of the conference.

Smith Will Review For Kentucky Clubs

Mrs. George Edwin Smith, instructor of English, will review a number of books and plays before the clubs in Kentucky and neighboring states during October and November.

Maxwell Anderson's "Star Wagon" will be the subject of her first review, today before the Huntington, West Virginia, branch of the A.A.U.W., and on Thursday, October 13, she will give the same review before the Williamson, Ky., Woman's Club.

Wednesday, October 19, she will again review the Anderson play before the Bourbon County Woman's Club, and on October 27 will give "Andrew Jackson—Portrait of a President," before the Louisville Kiwanis Club.

Wednesday, November 2, Mrs. Smith will review Robert Sherwood's "Abe Lincoln of Illinois," before the Woman's Club of Central Kentucky, and on November 3, she will review "Star Wagon" before the Midway Woman's Club.

On Tuesday, November 10, Mrs. Smith will give "Andrew Jackson—Portrait of a President" at a meeting of the Covington Optimist Club.

UK Clubs To Hold Joint Entertainment

There will be a reception for the new members of the faculty at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the ballroom of the Student Union building with the University Woman's club and Faculty club as joint hosts.

Mrs. W. E. Freeman is in charge of the program of entertainment which will begin at 9 o'clock. Mrs. James W. Martin is president of the Woman's club and Dr. Thomas M. Hahn, professor of physics, is president of the Faculty club.

WILDCATS SHOCK GRIDIRON WORLD IN VANDY GAME

Ky. Warriors Force Vanderbilt To Come From Behind To Win Game

14,000 SPECTATORS WITNESS BATTLE

Score By Kentucky In Opening Moments Bogs Commodore Attack

Kentucky, the team that didn't have a chance, shocked the entire football world Saturday afternoon by forcing the renowned Vanderbilt Commodores to come from behind and to use all their aerial magic in squeezing out a narrow 14-7 win on Stoll field.

The largest early season turn-out in many years, 14,000 fans, spell-bound as the under-rated Cats twice, in the first quarter, held for twelve within their own 10 yard line. Then 14,000 pairs of lungs yelled 14,000 voices hoarse as the Wildcats started a drive from their own 30 that ended with Cameron Davis standing behind the Commodore's goal line. Davis then added the extra point to push the Blues into a 7-0 lead at the half time.

During the first half the Cats, fighting their hearts out, took everything that Vanderbilt, football boss of the South, had to offer and came plugging back for more. Unawed by the prestige that had preceded the Sailors to the Bluegrass, the Cats not only refused to walk the Commodore's plank, but throughout the first half, kept pulling up the plank and bating the Commodores across the profile with it. One major radio network, the Columbia Broadcasting System, and two stations, WHAS, Louisville, and WSM, Nashville, etherized accounts of the game.

It was a slippery, 150-pound quarterback, Bert Marshall, that ruined the Cats hopes for an upset as his unerring passes and sweeping end dashes kept the Kentucky secondary jittery all afternoon. In Houseman, Huggins, Ford, Keene, Reinhardt and Hollins, Vanderbilt furnished Marshall with plenty of high class backfield help.

For the second successive week it would be impossible to point to any particular man and mark him as Kentucky's outstanding contributor. He might have been Hinkle, who followed every Vanderbilt play like an income tax collector; it might have been Davis who snagged the touchdown pass, it might have been Combs, who threw that pass or Zoeller, who kept the Commodore secondary backed up all day. Then the star could easily have been Brown, Lenden, Spickard, Palmer, Reid or Ebb. (Continued on Page 4)

The Segregating Shagsters

Don't think us too old-maidish if we answer the pleas of the many dance devotees who enjoy swing music but who dislike being jostled and pabbed by the rollicking jutebug that usually throws caution to the winds and just "opens wide the gate" to cavort in the generally accepted jutebug manner.

Girls wait that their clothes are being ruined and that the men are losing their shoeshines as well as their composure because of the many kicks they receive during a dance. Such remarks substantiate claims that there is considerable havoc wrought when the violent dancers are on the loose.

No one wants these swing-conscious lads and lassies to be deprived of any enjoyment or freedom of the ball room, but in consideration of the others, it seems only fair that they should have some regard for the feelings of those who are more reserved in their tepid-sore antics.

When these gay folks take the floor there is usually a clogging of the available dance space, as the temperate sisters and brothers are herded to the walls or in groups elsewhere until the delirium has subsided.

As a solution to this situation it is suggested that instead of ranging all over the floor, those who desire to indulge in this frolicsome pastime choose one section or corner where they can gather to run the gamut of their twisting, bending and stamping without interference, and where they can be respected and avoided by the prudent.—R. E. G.

On Matters Of Unity In General

It's because of that lighting Wildcat team—the tongue is out of the cheek of the collective student body and untrainedly phrasing those long awaited cheers for Kentucky's gridiron men.

Cynics attending the heart-warming pep rally Friday night predicted a "return to form" should the Cats lose the Saturday game. Evidently, those cynics had never seen Ab's team in action. Because if they had, they would have known that it takes a heart of stone to keep hands in pockets when that squad is fighting.

All of which totals this—

Within the past week, a distinct change has come over the student body. Now noticeable is a unity of spirit and purpose which has been conspicuously by its absence in the past.

Caval displays and rally—

First came Suky with his successful card displays and Friday's magnificent pep rally.

Ascol ties and canes—

Then the embryonic lawyers, through the simple medium of ascot ties, have welded their college into a unified whole for the purpose of creating a livelier and more cooperative student body.

Freshman Caps—

And now the Student Council issues a warning that freshmen are to wear their class caps. In spite of the attempt on the part of John Ed Pearce to ridicule this action, the fact remains that sane thinkers on the campus realize the importance of preserving a few traditions on which to build student loyalty, unity and cooperation. There is certainly a difference between the old rough-and-tumble hell week practices fortunately on the wane, and the idea of a common headgear for entering students. We hardly believe that they are being crucified.

Cause of this—

Whether this awakening of the practically dead is spontaneous, we do not know, but there is a sneaking suspicion that most of the "blame" can be laid to the incomparable Wildcats. At any rate, even the grey-haired alumni in the business district are talking of the renewed spirit and unity of the student body and of that Wildcat team that wins confidence even in losing.

Behind The Eckdahl

By ANDREW C. ECKDAHL

A lone, erect figure walks slowly across the center of the field as the game ends. The stadium empties onto the gridiron the peoples that it has held. Both bands play. Football players mingle with the crowd as they go slowly toward the gym. Negro boys collect empty bottles in the stands. As the figure reaches the other side, the circle which has formed around another man drops back. Ab Kirwan extends his hand to Vandy Coach Ray Morrison.

Kentucky has redeemed itself.—J. H.

Angora sweaters catch gnats. When you dance with a girl who is wearing one, you get gnats on your coat. This is by no means what is meant by the expression, "You are looking natty." It's spelled differently.

Therefore, we are unalterably opposed to angora sweaters. We suggest that the boys wear bibs to the dances and that they carry electric razors for their own protection.

CAMPUSCENE

By JOHN ED PEARCE

ACCORDING to Jim Caldwell, the other half of Campus-scene's staff, this column is going to be an attempt at a new deal in columnistic endeavor. Just what this new deal hopes to do, the authors themselves hardly know, but in this half you will perhaps see an attempt to give one side of campus events. These are personal opinions, and are to be taken as such. Perhaps you will agree; more than likely you will not. But any criticism which you find with what is written here should be directed at the writer.

Psychology and the Athletic Association

One of the queer quirks of human make-up was demonstrated down at Stoll field Saturday, when the Wildcat squad completely won the hearts and support of the student body, and Lexington, by a loss. In one of the most exciting games on record, the Big Blue team proved that it was one of the most courageous groups ever to represent the University. Instead of being disappointed by the defeat, everyone seemed encouraged, for they had seen a team give everything it had, in a fine attempt to overcome superior experience and power. There is probably more school spirit now than there has been for the past five years. Perhaps the spirit shown Saturday can be explained by the presence of Husing, perhaps it was the importance of the game. But the spirit that remained after the final whistle blew can be credited only to the magnificent fight that the Wildcat displayed.

The cheering in the Student section was better than ever before, and for same the student body should take a bow. But one thing that impressed the late comer to the game is the poor way in which the seats are arranged. If you happen to have a date who decides to do her hair before the game, you will find yourself shunted into the bleachers, along with a few hundred other students, who find themselves put there every week, in spite of the 'paulousness of the student section. At the Vanderbilt game, this stupid arrangement forced more than two hundred students to seek pews in the bleachers, although there were more than three hundred seats left vacant in the north stands, even after the game began. In the student section, one noticed the empty seats at the east end of the stadium, space enough to have seated nearly the entire number of students who were shunted off to the sun cure in the end of the field. It is rather infuriating to be told by some guard that all the seats are taken, and then to find that not nearly all the seats were filled; or to see outsiders filling in the space in the student side, where the student section should be.

This should be remedied. Why not enlarge the student section so that it will accommodate all the students? The students pay for their tickets. And presumably, the idea back of any collegiate athletic program is to entertain and invite participation. In other words, the students should come first. Let's get them back in the grandstand before Christmas.

Student Council Speaks

Last week the Student Council met; and the student body waited in fear and trembling while that august body announced in sleepy tones the outcome of that portentous gathering. Now, it seems that the Council really did something this time, which is remarkable in itself. This time the worthies of our council tolled out the doom of the freshmen, for in the last edition of the Kernel was the announcement that the student council was awfully mad about the whole thing, and was going to punish all freshmen who didn't wear their caps. This might be disgusting if it wasn't just a little too silly. To think that all the student council can do to amuse itself lies in telling the poor first-year men that they will be punished if they don't wear those ludicrous head-pieces, is rather pitiful. There is so much they could do if they only wake up and do it; but perhaps that is too much to expect.

In this corner, you will find a deep and underlying sympathy for the freshmen. He must undergo all the juvenile practices which are heaped upon him by his elder brethren, who are far more childish than he. If they were not so, they

John Ed Pearce? ... Wonder how jitter bug Gypsy Dave's head feels after connecting with the dance floor when she left her feet while doing a strenuous jitter at a recent college dance ... Wouldn't jitter bug Luke Linden, the Blue Diamond flash, make a swell dance partner for Gypsy Joe? ... Gordon Biggie certainly does a pretty good job of trying to mix up the card section at the games ... Have you met Jones, the transfer from Hanover College? He's the pride of Phi Delta—just ask them ... After seven years at UK, it is rumored that Liddy Finley is going to hire an incendiary to burn the school down ... Who was the birdie who told us that the wags are saying that Amelia Talbot and Bill Holster are one? ... Ohhhhh, isn't Virginia Hayden, the belle from Georgia, about the snozziest red head you ever cast your peepers on? ... Bettye Murphy's little dog "Topper" is about the dumbest dog—and why shouldn't he be? Ask the Murph to tell you the one about Clarence ... What is Jess Willmott's watch doing on the roof of a house on South Lime Street? ... Do Ann Young and Adelle Ball have the biggest, most beautiful eyes ...

We'll add these few tidbits to Bob Hess's masterpiece. John Greathouse and Martha Jane Rich are pinned. Owen Jones is pinned to Ruth Jennings of Henderson. The Bakers, Jack and Eileen, are pinned. Pi Kap Billy Back and Kitty Wootton have followed suit. It's contagious. Congratulations to all. Incidentally, Opal Hobbs and Dick Robinson were married Sunday ... our best wishes to both for all the happiness they deserve. Delt Benny Buffet is expected to return to Lexington soon and Brownie Brown, well, ask her how she feels about it all. John Ed Pearce has been around and very much about Ruth Stewart to the "chagrin" of Harry Williams. It seems that the Phi Sigs were in fine form at the game. And Vanderbilt followers showed up at Benton's with what looked like quack jugs. Frank Hamilton, the Sigma Nu hysteric, called Rochester, N. Y. Sunday night ... and she was at home. Perhaps it was just mental telepathy instead of personality Park. Roger "Doc" Fuson finally broke down and had his first date during his three years of college ... with the pride of the Zeta's, Hattie Richie ... you know what they say about redheads ... they're supposed to have made history what it is today. U. K.'s poleos wonders are throwing a dance Saturday eve that should be a honey from all reports. An outside band is being imported and the swimming team captained by Herb Hilenmeyer, will turn out en masse. Professor Bigge teaches pronunciation to his classes in a way that makes them remember. "Now pronounce 'em" in German just like you do 'em in English," explained Prof. Bigge. And they won't forget. "I love Sunday's!" a coed was overheard to say. "Because I don't have to dress up." Food point. Luellie Thornton was sitting in the lawyers' section at the game Saturday ... how come? Ask Steve White. Incidentally, the law students' section created quite a bit of interest and we understand that the next game the Courier-Journal is sending a photographer to take pictures of the law students in action for the yell. Walter Flipplin likes Mary Elizabeth Mason, one of last year's T. D's, whom it is rumored, will be back in school next semester. So that is that. How did all the people who were turned away from both the student section and the stands on the opposite side of the field like it?

In parting, we would like to say that the entire U. K. student body appreciates the efforts of the football team last Saturday on Stoll field. The boys played their hearts out and presented us with a fine game and also with an outstanding example of spirit and sportsmanship ... Anon.

Louisville Is Named By KPA Committee For Annual Meeting

The Kentucky Press Association voted to hold its annual mid-winter meeting in Louisville January 19, 20, and 21 at a meeting of the executive committee in the Student Union building Saturday.

At the meeting, called by G. M. Pedley, of Eddyville, chairman of the executive committee, a report on advertising committee activities was made by Shelton M. Saufley of Richmond. Harry Lee Wakefield, of Clinton, reported that he was filing a suit under the printing laws of the state to require certain printing ordered by law and J. T. Norris, editor of the Ashland Independent, presented a resolution against the Patman bill aimed at chain stores. It was adopted.

After the business session, members of the executive committee and their guests were entertained by the Lexington Herald-Leader at a luncheon at the Lafayette hotel where they were welcomed by Fred B. Wachs, general manager of the Lexington dailies. The committee was then the assigned to the control rooms and transmitters upon completion of their G-E training courses. Results of the tests these two groups conduct today will appear as refinements in the broadcasting of tomorrow.

ELECTRICAL TROUBLE SHOOTER
TWO men are carefully examining a large x-ray photograph in a darkened room. One of them points to some dark spots, some wavy lines. "There's the trouble."

This might well be taking place in a large medical laboratory. Instead, factory production lines and machinery are only a few feet away—it is a testing room in which x-ray photographs of steel castings are examined. In many such rooms, in all parts of the country, other engineers are making like tests—tests that ferret out defects in castings before they can cause trouble.

Knowing in detail the symptoms of every defect, these engineers, guided by the x-ray, detect gas pockets, shrinkage areas, and internal cracks. They eliminate all but "smooth" castings.

Such applications, of which many persons are not aware, are typical results of the constant search by G-E engineers for new uses of the x-ray. And not all of these engineers are veterans—some only a few years ago completed their studies in engineering schools and came on Test with General Electric.

SIXTEEN years ago G-E radio engineers crossed their fingers and snapped a switch in one of the laboratories at Schenectady—and a split second later heard through clumpy earphones, "This is WGY, radio broadcasting station of the General Electric Company, Schenectady, New York."

That was the "birth announcement" for this G-E station, whose rise from swaddling clothes to the lusty strength of sixteen years has paralleled the rise of radio broadcasting from experiment to smooth efficiency.

From the start, WGY was an unusual child. When only three days old, it started pioneering by presenting the first remote-control broadcast. And the pioneering is still going strong. As the station grew, it provided the groundwork for network broadcasting, mobile transmission, coast-to-coast television broadcasts.

This year, WGY celebrates its sixteenth birthday with a new 625-foot nondirectional antenna (70 feet higher than Washington Monument) and a modernistic new studio building with everything from a model kitchen to a large audience studio.

Engineers conduct tests on the young giant day and night. Some are the veterans who started years ago—others are recent graduates of engineering schools

Calling 'Em Wild

By JOE CREASON

GATHER ye near and heed to the parable of the Wildcats and the Commodores.

Now it came to pass on a certain Saturday, October 8, 1938 A.D., that two tribes did meet on a certain plain known far and wide as Stoll field. And encamped on the one end of the plain were those disciples of Kentucky, descendants of a mighty line of Wildcat men, while on the other end were believers of Vanderbilt, from the family of Noah, the first Commodore. Those of the Vanderbilt race were of a foreign land, raiding on the plains for the expressed purpose of sacking and plundering football prestige. And many years had elapsed since the time of the first raid and nothing had been done to bring about an end to the slaughter, which had been repeated sixteen times.

But there came in this year to the Kentucky quarters a man known as Albert Dennis Kirwan, a former member of the Wildcats but who wandered to foreign fields. And he did offer a lead the groping Kentuckyans' out of the football darkness and to fortify them against their rivals from Vanderbilt.

When the word was received that once more the Commodores would stage a raid, great was the gloating of many who evidently delight in seeing those of the Kentucky legions slaughtered. In some lands these bimbos are known among men as experts, but verily I say unto you, such is not this case. But even greater was the delight of these self styled experts when it was discovered that from the Kentucky camp would come those to dispute the raid, for those of the Kentucky cause were reputed to be as green and inexperienced as the farmer's daughter of a very ancient joke. Those marching in the Vanderbilt numbers were caloused from many bitter campaigns. And advice from the wise men was forth coming which stated: Sanctify thyelves and prepare for the sacrifice. But the Kentuckyans heeded them not.

Chapter Two

(In which the raid actually occurs and the Vanderbilt's make the first scoring gesture.)

The day of battle did dawn and the sun shone brightly and the birds sang and the wise guys spouted hot air predictions with every breath. In the man made hills bordering the Stoll plain, a multitude of 14,000 had gathered near unto each other for the joust. And there went out a champion of the camp of the Commodores unto the center of the field. And he did wear a helmet of gold upon his head and his raiment was of black and gold, the colors of his race.

And he stood and cried unto the armies of the Kentuckyans and spake unto them in a voice of thunder: Why are ye not come out to set your battle line in array? Choose thee eleven men to combat us 'ere we rend the to bits. If those you choose are able to cross safely through our lines and set foot safely beyond the double stripe territory which is located to our backs, then ye shall receive a reward of six points. The same conditions shall prevail for our crossing beyond your goal line. Are not your hearts set to fight, are ye not of the Vanderbilt lineage, mighty sons who are truly ready to strip thee of football honors?

Know ye not that the experts speak in one voice of our might and all agree that thine is a lost and hopeless cause?

When these words fell upon the ear-phones of many from the Kentucky's cause they were sore afraid and would have no guff with the boisterous Commodores but up from their number arose eleven sons who deemed it their duty to wage the battle. Where-upon the critics did bubble over with glee and the undertakers did rub their hands in excited expectation. But those wearing the blue of Kentucky were unafraid and more over were filled with divine determination to defeat their agitators. They in turn did say unto the raiders: Verily know we that our strongest offensive teeth were extracted by the Demon Graduation, but we are still determined to stand our ground and to gum thee up a bit. With these words the Commodores did hurl among the Cats an oval filled with air and with instructions to enfold the ball to their bosoms and return it unto their portion of the plain, if they were mighty enough. But the Cats did immediately drop the ball like it might have been a difficult course and it was pounced upon by a Vanderbilt cohort well within sneezing distance of the Kentucky goal-line.

Chapter Three

(In which is related the spurning of the Vanderbilt scoring threat and the Kentucky score, then ultimate defeat after a gallant battle.)

But the every effort of the Commodores to slap the Kentuckyans with a score were fraught with failure, for gallantly did the underdogs fight. And the Wildcats were visited with a wonderful spirit and smote their adversaries upon the forehead by moving their legions across the goal line, also ad-

Kentucky did have a hectic experience in pass offense Saturday. Mark it down. Kentucky will profit by that game. Kirwan and those dag-gummed determined Cats will see to that.

No thanks, Kentucky doesn't need your sympathy.

Intramural Football Has Full Schedule

Intramural touch football, which swung into action last week, continues this week with a full schedule of contests. Games are billed every afternoon at 4:00 on the parade field.

Under the double elimination system of play which is being used, a team must be twice defeated to be eliminated from the tourney. Losers of games during the past week have been paired as follows: Delta Tau Delta vs Sigma Nu; SPE vs Phi Delta Theta; Alpha Sigma Phi vs ATO and Kappa Alpha vs Lambda Chi. Bracketing of the winners in first round games are: Kappa Sigma vs Phi Kappa Tau; Triangic vs Alpha Chi and SPE vs Pi Kappa Alpha. Delta Chi was also victorious in its first game.

CATS-VANDY

ner, for their fine defensive play. Joe Shepherd for his splendid signal calling and punting, Charley Ishmael for his plunging and backing up of the line or Bill McCubbin, for his pass catching, might easily be given the star rating.

The determination of the Wildcats not to concede an inch to Ray Morrison's crew was evident in the first minute of play. Vanderbilt kicked-off and Combs raced back to the 20. On the second play Kentucky fumbled and Agee recovered for Vandy on the 13. Marshall ran into Hinklebein on the 10 and was floored. Linden checked Rein-schmidt after he had pumped down to the 4. Ford was held for no gain and the ball went over as Davis chased Marshall off the field on the 9. Four plays later the Commodore's sloop was again stranded in Kentucky scoring territory, this time on the 8. In desperation, on the last down, Marshall heaved the leather incomplete into the end zone.

Kentucky's Drive

Taking the ball on their own 20, the Blues started a drive down the field that netted their touchdown. Combs shot a perfect pass to McCubbin good for 32 yards and down to the Vandy 48. In two trips over tackle, Combs picked up three yards. Ishmael, dragging three Commodores with him, cracked over tackle and down to the 32. A pass, Combs to Ishmael, placed the oval on the 13. On the next play Combs hit toward end, faded back and looped the leather toward Davis in the end zone. Leaping high into the air, "Ish" snatched the ball, seemed to juggle it but held on for dear life as he was pld by the entire secondary. The stands were in an uproar as he added the extra point. Coming back from the intermission, Vandy opened a determined passing attack which moved the ball to the Kentucky 6-yard line, from which point Huggins plowed over for the first Vanderbilt points. Agee knotted the count at 7-all with a place kick for the extra point. The final Commodore tally came a few minutes later with Marshall flipping a pass to Hinton. Agee again kicked the point.

With a few minutes remaining the Kentucky hopes received a shot in the arm when Zoeller's pass to Hardin was ruled good because of interference on the Vanderbilt 28. The drive was stymied when Zoeller's fumble was covered for Vandy by Jackson.

Kentucky's "Best Band in Dixie" severely trimmed the Vanderbilt band in between halves competition as the Blue and White fife and drum corps paraded through their usual number of intricate maneuvers. Kentucky's next game will be against Washington and Lee University next week in the Stoll arena.

Lexington Concerns Aid Card Sections

New Stunt Section Is Helped
By Many Lexington Merchants

Through the financial cooperation of Lexington merchants, the card stunts displayed at the last two football games, under the direction of SuKy, campus pep organization, have been made possible. While the band paraded on the field, the student card flickers performed the designs under the direction of Randy Rash, Kentucky graduate.

SuKy requests ideas for figures to be formed by the card section in coming games to be turned in at the Kernel business office not later than Tuesday. The stunts have been so successful that it is hoped they may be used at the Xavier game, in Cincinnati, October 22.

A contest for the best ideas for figures to be used at the Kentucky-Alabama homecoming game will be sponsored by SuKy is enough suggestions for tricks are received, according to an announcement made by Elliot Beard, president of SuKy.

Merchants who have given their financial cooperation to the card stunts are Fayette Cigar Store, W. Main St.; Baynham Shoe Co., E. Main at Lime; Kaufman Clothing Store, W. Main; Cedar Village, S. Lime at Maxwell; Keith's Restaurant, E. Main; and Bradley's Drug Store, E. Main at Walnut.
